

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC STREET IS URGED IN THIS CITY BY INVENTOR OF SYSTEM

"Is the One Solution of Congestion Problem," Declares
William Phelps Eno.

IS EASY TO ENFORCE.

Indorses Evening World's Campaign for More Play
Space for Children.

By Sophie Irene Loeb.
The one-way traffic street is the one solution to the problem of congestion in the city of New York.

So declared William Phelps Eno, traffic expert and author of the "System Eno," used to regulate the traffic of Paris, yesterday.

Mr. Eno stopped in the city on the way to his country home at Saugatuck, Conn., to join his sister, Mrs. Pinchot, mother of Gifford and Anna Pinchot, and during the summer expects to finish another book on traffic.

He has given fifteen years' study to this problem, and is the author of the Paris regulations as well as those in many other European cities and in this country.

At his suggestion one-way traffic was instituted in Paris in 1909 and in Buenos Ayres about the same time. He also co-operated in arranging the present plan of one-way traffic in Boston.

"One-way traffic is as old as the hills," said Mr. Eno when I asked him to give his views relative to the movement in that direction here. "It was introduced in Pompeii, and the first sign was by pictures of chariots going in one direction on buildings facing the street where there was one-way traffic."

"I think The Evening World's efforts in securing more play space for children should be heartily co-operated in by all city officials. I know no way in which a greater measure of present difficulties would be eliminated than by a one-way traffic system."

NEW YORK ESPECIALLY FITTED FOR SUCH SYSTEM.
"It is not an experiment, and there is no reason why it cannot work successfully in New York. In fact, there is no city in the world that lends itself so admirably to such a plan as New York, since the streets are so well planned."

"It was a much more difficult task to inaugurate the system in the old cities of Europe where the streets were not so uniformly planned as they are here. Those cities just grew without any definite plan. But here it is a different matter."

"I would say that not only in this plan, as suggested by The Evening World, to relieve the congested area on the east side an excellent one, but I believe all streets running east and west should be made one-way traffic streets and there are several running north and south on which the plan would prove beneficial. In fact, one-way traffic would prove a boon in the metropolis."

I suggested to Mr. Eno that, according to the Police Department, it would require extra police to regulate such a system. "But it would be much cheaper in the end," he answered. "It would save the city thousands of dollars in police service by the system was in working order."

The only necessary equipment is the construction of signs, costing about $2.50 apiece. I am glad to hear Commissioner Woods has already introduced one-way traffic streets in some of the congested places, as in the vicinity of Madison street, and as he is doing a great public service by spreading the system to other parts of the city.

WOULD NEED EXTRA HELP ONLY AT FIRST.
"It would have to be enforced strictly at first. It would not be long before the whole thing would move as smoothly as any other police regulation. I would say also that during congested hours, where streets are not wide enough for four vehicles, one-way traffic would prove very efficacious."

"I also would recommend that where there are public schools or a large congregation of children necessary on the street, signs be erected, designating them as 'school streets' or 'play streets' and allowing vehicles to proceed there only at the speed of a walk. I do not think there is anything in the city charter that would be against such a measure. The police are given full authority to regulate the streets for the safety of pedestrians. Such regulation would certainly prevent hundreds of accidents. Strange to say, the reason there are not more accidents in the most congested districts is because the vehicles must move slowly, since they are unable to pass each other."

"As for closing some streets during certain periods of the day, I think this might be advisable where there is considerable public property on the street, such as schools, but otherwise I think it would be an infringement on property rights. But one-way traffic is a different matter that is a regulation made for all streets of a section alike, and there is no unjust discrimination."

"At any rate, the fact remains that wherever one-way traffic has been introduced it has proved its worth and has never been retracted. In Paris, for example, they are constantly adding more and more one-way traffic streets and any opposition that has ever been made since its introduction."

WHITMAN DECLARES HE WILL KEEP UP STATE GRAFT HUNT

Most of the Men Already Indicted Will Never Be Brought to Trial.

District Attorney Whitman has not abandoned his State graft probe with the dismissal of the extraordinary Grand Jury. He declared today that he will pick up several loose ends of the roads contracts with local bearings during the next few weeks.

The jury which went out of being indicted a few minor officials. Last April it complained to Justice Davis that State department heads had not co-operated in the inquiry, adding that State Engineer Hensel was unfit for office because he refused to waive immunity and testify.

Arthur A. McLean, former treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, was indicted for accepting campaign contributions from corporations. He pleaded guilty and was freed under a suspended sentence. Everett P. Fowler of Kingston was indicted for extortion. His case is now in the Court of Appeals on a demurrer. His counsel insists that Fowler was indicted on insufficient evidence.

The suit brought against Fowler and two others to recover $100,000 in excess fees growing out of the Aqueduct condemnations has nothing to do with the indictment against Fowler. In the latter suit the Corporation Counsel charges that Fowler, John J. Linson of Poughkeepsie and Augustus H. Van Buren plotted to collect illegal fees for services rendered the city as special counsel.

The indictment against James K. McGuire, former Mayor of Syracuse, may never be pressed because of the condition of the former Mayor's brother, George. The brother's testimony brought the indictment. McGuire is now in a sanitarium. McGuire was indicted for soliciting contributions from corporations.

Thomas Hasset, indicted for an alleged extortion of $50,000 in connection with the building of the Hudson River synon, will not be brought to trial unless corroborative evidence turns up. Whitman admits he has not sufficient evidence to press Hasset's case to trial.

BOTH ORCHESTRAS AND BANDS TO GIVE CONCERTS IN PARKS

Commissioner Ward Ends Discard in Committee and Music Begins Saturday Afternoon.

Park Commissioner Ward today stepped in and settled the controversy that arose among the composers, conductors and critics on his Committee on Park Music yesterday as to whether orchestras or bands should be given in the parks this summer. The Commissioner, after reviewing the minutes of the committee meeting in the Whitehall Club yesterday afternoon, decided it would be both.

For three hours Frank Damrosch, Fred Stahlberg, E. C. Clark, Naham Franko, R. E. Johnston and others who have figured in outdoor concerts for the people in the past were at loggerheads over the question of whether the blare of the band was more pleasing than the softer strains of the orchestra to music loving crowds. Beginning July 4, the Commissioner announced, seven concerts a week will be given on the Mall in Central Park, in which a band of fifty pieces will alternate with an orchestra of fifty-two pieces. The first concert will be given on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Praises This Remedy for Lung Trouble

Many people are led to believe that lung trouble is uncurable. This is not the case, as many have been restored to health by Ecken's Alternative.

"Bowling Green, Ky., R. No. 4. 'Gentlemen—In 1908 I had a severe cough for six months. I tried all the medicines that my doctor recommended, but no results came for the better. I had night sweats and would cough and spit until I got so weak I could hardly do anything. But at last James Doring of Glasgow Junction insisted that I try your medicine. In one week there was quite an improvement in my condition, and after I had taken several bottles I felt as well as ever in my life. I firmly believe Ecken's Alternative will relieve any case of lung trouble if taken before the last stage. (Abbreviated.) (Attified.) 'A. C. BERTHIAUME'."

Ecken's Alternative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and subdues the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold at all drug stores and by leading druggists. Write Schenck Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of references.

the crowds on the Mall the band will be divided and assigned to two other parks in the borough. Just what will be done with the orchestra when not playing in Central Park will not be decided until Friday, when the committee will meet again.

Commissioner Ward expects to make the most of the $50,000 appropriation for park music by reducing the number of places where concerts have been given and increasing the number of concerts in other parks, selected for their central location. He will not be able to do this in the east side as he planned, for the reason the districts are so congested that the parks are not large enough to accommodate the crowds. The majority of recommendations made by the committee were accepted today by Commissioner Ward. He approved particularly of the suggestion that the predominating race in each section where concerts are given should be considered in preparing programmes. These contain musical selections characteristic of the nationality. It was urged. Also leaders will be sent to sections where their work is most appreciated.

It was rumored today that Naham Franko will resign from the committee in order to make application for the leadership of the orchestra to play on the Mall.

SEIGEL LEGALLY BANKRUPT.

He and Vogel Are Adjudicated by Judge Hough.

Judge Hough yesterday signed an order adjudicating Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, as copartners conducting a private bank, bankrupts, on the petition filed Jan. 12 by the attorneys for these creditors, Esther Loufer, Herman Kronovitz and Michael Huppert, to the bankruptcy petition and consented to be adjudicated bankrupts. Judge Hough designated Stanley W. Dexter of No. 71 Broadway, to take charge of further proceedings in the case. Henry Vogel was appointed receiver for the firm on Dec. 30, 1913, in an equity suit, and he has since been administering its affairs.
